Industrial-technological equipment service management system

(GARDIS)

The modern quality of production industrialization implies the automation of a large part of industrial processes, which in turn leads to the need to create systems for the management of current services of hardware resources.

The foregoing leads to stable and trouble-free operation of machines and production complexes and optimization of wear processes and, as a result, to increase productivity and minimize costs necessary to ensure safety.

Thus, the purpose of the industrial-technological equipment service management system is to support modern industrial production processes and ensure smooth operation.
